

James Ryan
General Manager

James Ryan grew up in Christchurch and North Canterbury, and holds a Masters degree in geography from the University of Canterbury.

Prior to joining the Trust James worked in environmental policy at DairyNZ. He have previously worked at the Canterbury Regional Council and the Auckland Regional Council in a range of policy, public affairs and management roles. James has also spent several years working overseas on some large infrastructure projects in London and Dublin.

James is excited about working for an organisation that celebrates the world's leading farmers and growers.

James lives in Christchurch with his wife, Amanda, and sons aged 10 and 12 (Joseph and Patrick).