

David BooneTrustee

I have a broad range of experience in natural resources “on the ground” management, and “in the office” management. My most recent posting as Land Manager for Greater Wellington Regional Council is providing me with new enthusiasm as a public servant to help communities face the complexity and vastness of natural resource challenges facing New Zealanders. I do not come from a farming background (although I have milked cows!), however I would be honoured to offer a diverse range of natural resource management skills dedicated to assisting the Trust supporting New Zealand farmers/growers to be recognised as world leaders in the management of their natural resources and to promote and celebrate sustainable management practices.
